To Whom It May Concern:

The inaugural Singapore National Games (SNG) 2012 was a sports festival to showcase the nations sporting talents. Pitting clusters against each other in friendly sporting competitions, the SNG 2012 presented an enriching and vibrant experience for all who were a part of it in one way or another. This unique pilot event had offered budding volunteers to unearth their broadcasting talents and facilitate the SNG 2012 as Sports Presenters.

Kristopher Fu, was one such volunteer who was recruited as a Sports Presenter for the Athletics Competition under the Sports Competition functional area (FA). Being a well experienced, eloquent and competent presenter already, Kris handled the various aspects of Sports Presentation diligently and with much expertise. Kris is perhaps one of the most industrious personnel I have worked with and more importantly, he is a wonderful leader, as reflected in his constant guiding nature whilst working with his team members of SNG 2012. Kris is also a very passionate individual who takes charge from the get go and was a huge influence in the successful presenting of the Athletics event. I am thoroughly encouraged to have met and worked with a talented individual like Kris.
